⚠ CAPTAINS MEETING

A captains' meeting to determine the draw will be held at 20.10 before the entrance of the Open Room. Here are the relevant parts of the Conditions of Contest:

32 teams qualify to the KO stage.

All matches will be played as a knockout match of 56 boards (played as four 14-board stanzas) with IMP scoring.

Round of 32 match opponents are determined as follows:

- ♠ 1st from the Swiss qualification chooses from the bottom 16 qualifiers. The two teams receive seeding number 1 and 32 respectively; then
- ♠ 2nd chooses from the remaining bottom 16 qualifiers. The two teams receive seeding number 2 and 31 respectively; then
- ♠ 3rd chooses from the remaining bottom 16 qualifiers. The two teams receive seeding number 3 and 30 respectively; then
- ♠ 4th chooses from the remaining bottom 16 qualifiers. The two teams receive seeding number 4 and 29 respectively.
- ♠ 5th chooses from the remaining bottom 16 qualifiers. The two teams receive seeding number 5 and 28 respectively; then
- ♠ 6th chooses from the remaining bottom 16 qualifiers. The two teams receive seeding number 6 and 27 respectively; then
- ♠ 7th chooses from the remaining bottom 16 qualifiers. The two teams receive seeding number 7 and 26 respectively; then
- ♠ 8th chooses from the remaining bottom 16 qualifiers. The two teams receive seeding number 8 and 25 respectively.
- ♠ The remaining seeds nos. 9-24 are assigned in ascending order according to the original seeding made before the start (e.g. 9 vs 24, 10 vs 23 and so forth).

There will be no play-off for Bronze: both losers of the semifinals will be awarded the bronze medal and corresponding EBL masterpoints.

8. Carry Over

There will be no carry over to any knockout phase.

Seating rights

2.2. KO Stage

The seating rights for each stanza will be automatically assigned by the scoring system, using a random draw. The following restrictions will apply:

- a) Each team will have seating rights in two stanzas.
- b) The four stanzas are divided in portions of two each: 1-2, 3-4; when a team is assigned seating rights in one stanza of the portion, the other automatically gets the other.
- c) If a team gets seating rights in stanza four, the other will get seating rights in stanza one.
- d) If a team gets seating rights in stanza one, the other will get seating rights in stanza four.

Tie-breaking

If there is a tie at the end of any knockout stage including the finals and play-off no extra session of boards will be played and the higher-ranked team at the end of the qualification will be declared the winner. If a tie still exists the team that won the qualification match – if any – will be declared the winner. If the direct match in the qualification were a draw or if there were no direct match in the qualification, then the team with the best Swiss point ratio will be declared the winner.

The line-up might be made from remote at this link: <http://lineup.eurobridge.org:8222>

You will get an email with the password.

⚠ SWISS CUP FORMAT

Preamble: the following regulation is missing details related to the number of entries, hence is to be published after the start

The event is divided in three phases: qualification, semifinals, final.

a) Qualification

It will be played over 8 rounds of 14 boards each, with Swiss movement, on February 13th and 14th. After day one, the starting teams will be joined by the drop-in teams coming from the Open Teams Championship. Those teams are a maximum of sixteen (the losers of the round of 32) and will be receiving a carry-over. They will not be paired against each other in the fifth round of the Swiss. At the end, the teams will be split in semifinal A and semifinal B. The qualifiers will be receiving a linear carry-over score equal to 20 VP to the best ranked, and down to 0 to the last.

b) Semifinals

It will be played over 8 rounds of 14 boards each, with Swiss movement, on February 15th and 16th. The qualifiers to semifinal A coming from the qualification stage will be joined by drop-in teams coming from the Open Teams Championship. Those teams are a maximum of eight (the losers of the round of 16) and will be receiving a carry-over. They will not be paired against each other in the first round of the Swiss.

After day one, the teams in semifinal A will be joined by the drop-in teams coming from the Open Teams Championship. Those teams are a maximum of four (the losers of the round of quarter-finals) and will be receiving a carry-over. They will not be paired amongst themselves in the fifth round of the Swiss.

The teams playing semifinal B will be receiving a linear carry-over score equal to 5 VP to the best ranked, and down to 0 to the last.

At the end, some teams qualify to Final A: some from semifinal A, 1 from semifinal B, and a maximum of 2 from the Open Teams Championship.

The qualifiers will be receiving a linear carry-over score equal to 20 VP to the best ranked, and down to 0 to the last.

The drop-in teams receive a carry-over. The team coming from semifinal B receives a carry-over equal to 0.

c) Final

It will be played over 4 rounds of 14 boards each, with Swiss movement, on February 17th. The drop-in teams will not be paired against each other in the first round of the Swiss.

⚠ MASTER POINT REQUIREMENTS IN SWISS TEAMS CUP

Master Points will be awarded in accordance with the EBL Master Points scheme, provided that a player has played at least 3 out of 8 matches in the qualification and the semifinal stage, and at least 2 matches out of 4 in the final stage. The relevant EMP scales are available on the EBL website.

Walking Around

CASUAL CHATS WITH SOME PARTICIPANTS

BY FRANCESCA CANALI

Yesterday morning, around 9:15, the playing area belonged to staff only.

Departments were holding their meetings, Gianluca was guiding the caddies to perfection, Chicco, our light manager, was fine-tuning the table lamps: a little bit too dark... now a little bit too bright... no, now it's a tad too dark again... Part obsession, part perfection, that's Chicco.

Fotis Skoularikis

Fotis, our IT manager, was wearing a hoodie that read "Chaos and Order": that says it all.

The TDs, gilets bursting with pockets stuffed with regulations and system cards, were gathering and gearing up to hit the field like a rugby team performing the haka.

Sabine Auken

The first player to appear was Sabine Auken, standing quietly in the playing area, getting a feel for the room.

Born in Germany, Sabine has represented her birth country for over 40 years, winning European and World titles under the German flag. But Sabine will not be in Riga this June. The reason?

A glance at her WBF People Finder profile tells the story: her flag has already changed to Danish.

"I have lived more than half my life now in Denmark," said Sabine, who is based in Copenhagen. "My children and all my friends are here."

Playing for Denmark, she explains, simply feels like home. "We feel very welcome. Danish people encouraged us to switch."

Sabine and Roy have the double option of playing in the Open or the Mixed. The Open would be their first choice, but with Denmark boasting many strong Open pairs and fewer Mixed options, they may well end up strengthening the Mixed team. Either way, due to WBF eligibility rules, they must sit out this year before officially representing their new country.

In the meantime, Sabine is making the most of Transnational events, where players can compete without nationality restrictions. And here she is, in Prague.

She told us that she loves playing EBL events and that "the organization is the best in the world." Yes, she really said that, and we really appreciate it. Thank you, Sabine!

When you are basically nobody and talking with a world champion, you get very used to being interrupted. Someone always stepping in: how to bid, how to play, a quick hello that turns into a long goodbye. But for the entire duration of my chat with Sabine, Reese Milner stood quietly to the side, patiently waiting. Not a word, not a gesture. A true gentleman. And everything was confirmed when his turn came.

Reese Milner

First things first: the fur hat. How could I not ask?

"It's a gift from Zia Mahmood! He brought it for me from Pakistan," said Reese. Coming from Florida to Prague, he faced a 25°C temperature drop (that's 77°F for our American friends, you're welcome). A hat from Zia was clearly a survival necessity.

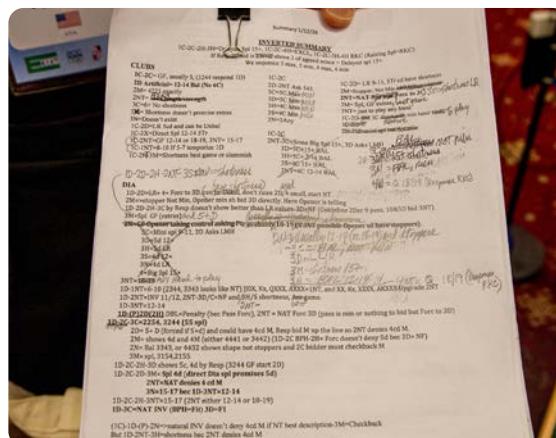

So, why Prague? Now, when you think you've asked the most obvious question in the room, don't expect an obvious answer.

"For Dan Brown," said Reese. Yes, that Dan Brown. The American novelist's latest book is set right here in Prague, and Reese will be joining a special walking tour through the streets of the bestseller.

That The Secret of Secrets would intertwine with the EBL European Winter Championships had been clear to us for months, not only because of the city, but also because our President Eric Laurant casually bumped into Dan Brown himself at an airport back in October, and got the book signed!

And one last thing: if you ever get a chance to look at Reese's system card, you'll find yet another connection with Dan Brown. The first page? Pure Da Vinci Code.

By the way, guess Reese's team name?

Note to Dan Brown: set your next novel at a bridge championship. The material is all here.

Milan Macura, Dorte and Morten Bilde

Mr and Mrs Bilde used to be Dorte and Morten. Now they are obviously “the parents of Dennis”. And they love it. They came from Aarhus, Denmark (“but write ‘1 hour from Herning’: they will know where it is”), playing in the team of our bridge Komenský, aka Milan Macura (if you missed our interview with him, go back to Bulletin 2!).

Overnight, Milan dreams of methods to make bridge more accessible to new players. His latest brilliances? The zero-NT bid, something that gives new players a way to describe their 12-14 balanced hands in an easier and more natural way, and an additional double card to distinguish punitive from informative doubles.

Back to the Danes: Morten and Dorte are already teaching their grandchildren some trick-taking. Another bridge dynasty in the making!

Mateo Chediak

We all have our badges, right? But the fanciest one belongs to Mateo Chediak. It reads: Mateo Chediak, VIP.

Mateo is the son of our Hospitality & Registration manager Vicky Chediak. With the school break colliding with the Championships, Mateo had no choice but to follow his mum to Prague. Not that he's complaining. He is enjoying the trip and taking the opportunity to watch top players in action. At 12, Mateo is already very fond of bridge, and his next goal? Entering the U16 Norwegian team and representing his country in Riga. Watch this space.

Just outside the playing area, we bumped into Daniel Siu Wai Chui, who could easily be the player who traveled the longest distance: all the way from Hong Kong, China. (Though when it comes to long travels, the real winner is our Broadcast manager Traian Chira, all the way from Australia.)

Daniel Siu Wai Chui

Daniel is an IT architect who learnt bridge almost 30 years ago while studying at university. He will be here in Prague for the whole duration of the Championships, and plans to enjoy some sightseeing afterwards, with Budapest and Vienna on the list. And here is his message for us:

"Hi Bridge Friends! Good luck to all of you!"

Marc van B (+1 VP if you spell his last name correctly) calls the players into the room and it's time to play.

See you tomorrow for another walk around!

EUROPEAN WINTER TRANSNATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS

QUALIFICATION, ROUND 4

AMY CASANOVA

After the first four qualifying rounds, BRIDGE TRAINER topped the leaderboard with 65.57 VPs, followed by LOIBEN with 61.60, FORMIDABLES with 60.00 and HOBAA with 58.45.

The next four teams in the rankings were all within about 1 VP with scores over 57 VPs; ninth place was a shade below 55 VPs.

I tuned in from the west coast of the U.S. to catch the fourth session on BBO: SAYIN ABIM, representing Türkiye (Sedat Aluf, Ahmet Dedeayir, Nezih Kubac, Ali Ucar, M. Gokhan Yilmaz, Nafiz Zorlu), versus DAISY CHAIN, representing France and Switzerland (Thomas Besis, Baptiste Combescure, Pierre Franceschetti, Cedric Lorenzini, Quentin Robert, Hilda Setton).

I counted 17 Souths who balanced with 2♠ on this deal. There were lots of different actions – direct overcalls and balancing calls – at other tables, depending on West's opening bid.

After 1♣-Pass-1♥, when South doesn't overcall

1♠ or double, coming in with 2♠ in the balancing seat might tip declarer off to this type of distribution.

It sure seemed like it in the Open Room. Bessis received the lead of the ♠K, taken with the ace as North played the 2. He then embarked on the following line of play: ♣4 to the 7, 8 and 10, South switching to the ♦10, 5, 2 and ace. He next advanced the ♠10 to South's queen, dummy's 4 and North's 8. South persisted with another diamond; North played the jack and declarer won with the king. The ♣2 was led to the 3, ace and queen; next declarer played the ♣5, ruffed by North, who cashed the ♦Q and led the ♣J, but declarer ruffed in dummy and played his fourth club. When North discarded, he ruffed low and took the marked heart finesse for nine tricks. A discovery play of sorts.

At the other table, South led the ♣J. Declarer won with the ace and took the wrong view in the trump suit, cashing the ♥A and running the ♥J. Down one for 6 IMPs to DAISY CHAIN in an otherwise very flat set of boards – they exchanged only 12 IMPs in total, with DAISY CHAIN winning the match 8-4.

Peter TALYIGAS

That makes it difficult to believe Poland's GDANSK (Slawomir Czech, Szymon Grabala, Andrzej Jarzabkowski, Jan Luczeczko, Piotr Suchodolski, Paweł Szymonik) and Hungary's NEW BROOM (Peter Talyigas, Mate Vagi, Attila Vikor, Benjamin Zabradi) were playing the same boards; their final score was 23-51.

Many Wests chose to advance East's 1♠ overcall with a simple, nonforcing 2♦. Often, the nine-trick game in notrump was found but at many tables the auction died there in a heart partscore. I saw at least a few transfer advances – a handy gadget – which made it easier for 3NT to be found.

In the Closed Room, what might have happened for E-W after the cuebid was doubled by North? What did that even mean? What would South have done if East passed? We'll never know.

East jumped to 4♠. West's attempt to correct to 5♥ might have saved some of the 17 IMPs that were lost as 5♠x was down five for -1100.

For the last board of the first day, LoveBridge was a sea of spade contracts in the West, mostly partials for those who opened some kind of weak two-bid. There were a few heart contracts in the mix at tables where East got to preempt their old-fashioned, six-card suit.

Then we get to the outliers.

by bridgeCARE

bridgeCARE team is organizing an exciting event, for golf lovers of the bridge world, to be staged during championships.

We created a tour for these golf events named Puttl Tour. The concept is to have a putting contest where each hole will be a Par2.

Each event will be 4 rounds/ 3 holes Par24, stroke play. The entry fee will be 20 euros and half of the total of the entry fees will be awarded to the winner.

The starting time of each event will be around 1 hour after the finish of play (around 21.00)

Please contact Traian Chira (bridge@chirisoft.com) or Milan Macura() to register for the first inaugural event to be staged on Thursday 12/02.

We hope the event will have some traction and we hope to develop a tour with ranking points and finals during the final championship of the year.

What is your favourite bridge tournament in the world and why?

ZACHARY GROSSACK

“ The Iceland Bridge Festival is unmatched in competition level for size. But the best is the spirit! Reykjavik is tiny but mighty, amazing restaurant, and best of all, everyone's in “high spirits” (note the double entendre) because while it's a serious tournament, it's still a festival, and it's quite convivial and just special.

SABINE AUKEN

“ Any top-level tournament that gives me the opportunity to experience new cultures, make new friends and spend time with my old bridge friends.

JOE GRUE

“ Any world championships I can go and compete in.

JUSTYNA ZMUDA

“ International Baltic Congress taking place in Sopot - a city located by the Baltic Sea in northern Poland. A whole week of bridge during the summer! In the morning you can hang out with your friends in great restaurants, enjoy the beach and the lovely architecture and then play same cards in the afternoon. There is one difference compared to summer festivals taking place in other countries - you can actually play the whole day if you want, as there are also morning tournaments. I recommend it to everyone - come and join us!

ZIA MAHMOOD

“ Biarritz... not too much bridge... holiday and great food!

BOYE BROGELAND

“ I really like the three American Nationals – Spring, Summer and Fall – they are like de facto World Championships with all the best players taking part. I have played all the Nationals since Las Vegas in November 2001, and look forward to the next one in St. Louis right after the EBL Winter Games in Prague.

EUROPEAN WINTER TRANSNATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS

QUALIFICATION, ROUND 6

Gillis v. Sayin Abim

Bridge Trainer v. Hobaa

JOS JACOBS

After Wednesday morning's first round, the Swiss event could welcome a new leader. So it is only proper, I think, to immediately turn our attention to this team: Gillis, accompanied by a few Norwegians. Of course, they received the honour of having to play their next match at table 1. Their opponents would be the Turkish team Sayin Abim. All four pairs in this match would play a basically natural system.

As so often before, I could not resist the temptation to have a look, from time to time, at the other broadcasted match: Bridge Trainer v Hobaa. These two teams, one from Israel and one from China, had been doing well on the opening day but they had not yet met. Here too, we had four pairs who would all play a basically natural system.

First blood in my combined report occurred on the second board of the set. In the other match, both teams had reached 4♠ and gone one down but at table 2, they had entirely different ideas, some of them possibly not so good, as we shall see. Here is what happened in the Open Room.

Dble	3♠	All Pas

Though you might go down in 3♠, nine tricks was a more normal result all over the place. So the Israelis chalked up +140 here.

At the other table, there was an accident:

South duly led the ♦J but he never got his ruff. As a result, the contract was even made, and the Israelis gained 13 juicy IMPs.

On the next deal, a slam was in the air:

North simply told what he had on offer and, not being clairvoyant, South called it a day. That was an easy enough +450 for Bridge Trainer.

At the other table, the Turkish N/S produced basically the same start of the auction but over South's 4♦, North gave it another try with 4♠. After this, South checked keycards and, though North denied the ♥Q, South settled for the slam. All would have been well if the ♦K had behaved but when he did not, Kubac, not being clairvoyant either, had to accept defeat. That was 11 IMPs to Gillis.

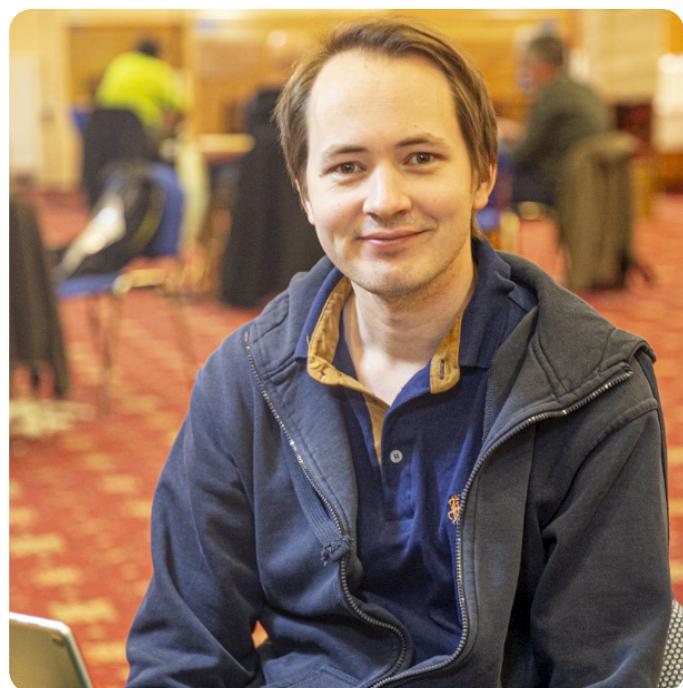

On the next board, in both matches the play was the thing.

Getting to 4♠ in E/W was not much of a problem. At three of our four tables East did not open so E/W had to bid all the way up to 4♠ after North's diamond overcall. At one table, East opened 2♥ showing majors so what would West want more?

At all our four tables, West thus was in 4♠ and top diamonds were led and continued. To make 4♠, you should take care to remain in control. You can afford to lose a diamond, a club and a trump but only as long as you stay in control. Nafiz Zorlu had no trouble: he followed the old adage of establishing the side suit first. He ruffed the second diamond and played on clubs. North won the second round and persisted with diamonds but now, Zorlu could ruff with the ♠J and play ♠K and another, overtaking the ♠9 with dummy's ♠10. South ducked but Zorlu simply continued ♠A and another. As South was also out of diamonds and clubs and thus had only hearts left, Zorlu had the rest for a fine +420 for Sayin Abim.

Christian BAKKE

In the replay, Gillis also ruffed the second diamond, but when he next played ♠K and another, there was no longer a way to overcome the 4-1 trump break. He thus went one down and lost 10 IMPs in the process.

Unbelievably, in our other match, the same swing occurred for the same reason. That was 10 IMPs to the Israelis as well.

On the next deal, the issue was to believe firmly in one's own overcalls.

In the Open Room, West thought he might have something useful in defence. Right he was but his values, combined with East's weak two, simply were not enough, not even to prevent the overtrick. Gillis +650.

At the other table, South had a tool available:

Some quieter boards and then a well-timed case of Turkish aggression.

When East led the ♣J rather than a low one (or a spade, for that matter), the hand was quickly over. With the clubs now blocked, all declarer had to do was to play West, in view of his double, for the ♦A. On ideal defence, declarer should lose three clubs and two aces or even two spades, three clubs and the ♦A for down two. The ♣J lead, however, led to nine tricks for declarer, +400 and 7 more IMPs to Sayin Abim.

By the way: +400 to N/S was not the best score in that direction. I also spotted a score of +600 in N/S which was not a vulnerability error. E/W had managed to find their 4-4 fit in hearts but on more than perfect defence, N/S nearly made 4♥ themselves.□.

On the penultimate deal, the Gillis team also showed some aggression, but their timing was not as good as next door.

Nicely done by E/W. One might say that West was well and truly looking at the heart stopper his partner was missing but when you would give it a second thought, you would tend to agree with Zorlu, I think, that this sort of stopper might not be quite enough for 3NT. EUROPEAN WINTER TRANSNATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS

WARMING UP

MARK HORTON

Have you ever wondered how the players prepare for a major championship? Perhaps they read their system notes, and try a few defensive and play problems. That is not an issue for a journalist, so, in anticipation of some suitable weather, I concentrated on watching films that contained a lot of snow, Where Eagles Dare, The Heroes of Telemark and Scott of the Antarctic (prior to the Mixed Teams perhaps Doctor Zhivago is in order).

In any event, by the time you are starting your seventh match, the nerves will have gone, and you can hope to perform at your best.

Assuming West had shown excellent (solid?) clubs, 5♦ was a control, as was 5♥. If 5NT was pick a slam West was entitled to bid 7♣ if he believed all first round controls were present, but my understanding is that 5NT denies interest in a grand slam.

Here South led the ♥6, +1440 and 16 IMPs for Royal.

Here's a question for you.

When dummy has only bid the trump suit, what does a double of a slam contract ask partner to lead?

It happened once, 7♣ being doubled in the match between Ante and Cercol after this auction:

West	North	East	South
Rus	Briciu	Stefanec	Gunev

North alerted his double – perhaps someone on site could ask him what it meant.

South led the ♦2 so +1630 and 12 IMPs when compared with the +920 recorded in the Open Room.

Two pairs went all in with 7NT. When West was declarer north doubled and collected 14 IMPs. Where East was at the helm, North didn't double and South did not guess to lead a spade, +1520 and an 11 IMP swing.

Having achieved a personal best by reporting on six successive slam deals in my first two articles, this deal offered some temporary relief:

1♥ was the popular choice for South (more than 40 players selected it).

East led the ♦Q and declarer took dummy's ♦A and played a club. When West put up the ♣K declarer won and played a heart. East took the ♥A (ducking will not help) and continued with the ♦10, but declarer ruffed, cashed dummy's top hearts and played a club, inevitably coming to nine tricks, +140.

To have any chance of defeating 3♠ West must hold on to the ♣K. Say declarer ducks the trick to East and back comes a diamond. Declarer ruffs and plays a heart, which East must duck. Having won in dummy declarer can play a club to the ace and a club, but East ruffs with the ♣Q and plays two rounds of spades leaving declarer with two losers.

Passing with South's cards attracted a fair amount of support (the only other bid selected was 2♥, easy if its hearts and a minor). When that happens what should North do?

North's choice saw East try 3NT. In these days of light opening bids that is not without risk, but South was unwilling to speculate with a double. She led the ♥K and declarer was soon two down, -200 and a couple of IMPs.
